

SPEED OF TRUST[®]

RESULTS

"Since we initially implemented the Speed of Trust, I would describe it as a complete reversal in every way you can think of. Every critical measure of our technology organization has substantially improved over the last 4 years."

Kevin Chase, SVP-CIO & CPO
Energy Future Holdings

"Culture can be a competitive advantage in this marketplace. The only way for a company to be truly agile, to rapidly take advantage of opportunities or rapidly mitigate threats, is to be collaborative and cohesive—and trust is the foundation."

Jeffrey Newman, President & CEO
Boyd's Coffee

"Our organization is embracing the Speed of Trust throughout the Americas. In fact, it is one of the most highly sought out and enjoyed courses that Nissan has offered."

Carlos Tavares, former EVP,
Nissan

"Four years running of organizational health improvements. The foundation is the Speed of Trust."

Carlos Botero, EVP of HR
DIRECTV Home Services

"The single biggest contributor to our great year last year, and this year's fast start, has been the Speed of Trust. It's the most exciting change in the culture in the last 28 years."

Al Carey, Former CEO
Frito Lay

Thousands of teams and organizations around the world have experienced the incredible results of increasing speed and decreasing costs through The Speed of Trust.

Client	Challenges	Results
Energy   	- Leadership behavior didn't support "one-team" mentality - Increasing costs - Declining performance/ degradation of operations - Disconnect between IT delivery and business needs	96% increase in System Reliability - Moved from 1700 hours of system down time per year to less than 50 hours 92% increase in Cyber Maturity score 26% decrease in total IT costs - Speed of delivery increased 50% - Customer satisfaction increased 50%
Consumer 	- Union-management tensions - Slow adaptation to market realities - Slow decision making process - Lack of collaboration - Debilitating constraints in manufacturing process flow	- Completed first union agreement process before contract expiration with over 90% "yes" vote - Streamlined process flow and collaboration, resulting in savings of $1.5M
Media 	- Stagnant employee engagement - High turnover (36% annually) - Poor productivity - High-stress work environment	- Engagement scores increased 13 points in first year - Average technician tenure quadrupled - Customer satisfaction increased to 92% overall
Automotive 	- Facing increasing costs due to decreasing trust across organization - Significant lack of collaboration - Working in silos	- Trust became core of 10-year growth strategy - Most highly rated program ever offered at Nissan N.A.
Government 	- Strained departmental relationships - Low citizen confidence - Impending restructuring	- Reduced new-hire timeframe from 5 weeks to 2 days - Achieved agreement with vendor agency, resulting in hundreds of thousands of dollars saved annually - Dramatically cut bureaucratic process
Healthcare 	- Patient satisfaction scores had plateaued - Frequent marketplace change and governmental compliance issues - Poor departmental collaboration	- Significantly faster decision making and problem solving - Patient needs resolved quickly - Common language for staff - Agile response to marketplace and governmental change
Consumer 	- Inability to move engagement scores for several years - Lack of sales growth - High turnover (40% in one division)	- Increased engagement scores across entire organization by 4% - Collaboration between sales and marketing, resulting in double-digit sales growth - Reduced turnover by 70% in one division - Marketplace pricing from 16 to 5 weeks

FranklinCovey
THE ULTIMATE COMPETITIVE ADVANTAGE

Accolades for Speed of Trust

"When Lenovo acquired IBM PC, we quickly realized that our biggest challenges would not be in technology, supply chain, or even organizational structure. Our biggest challenge was in building trust among our teams, with our customers and partners, and with key influencers around the world. We partnered with FranklinCovey to help us build trust and turn this challenge into an advantage. Global businesses must view trust as a top strategic priority. A company can have an innovative spirit, great products, a strong strategy, and an efficient business model. But only by creating, embracing, and leveraging the concept of trust can a company truly thrive on the global landscape."

— Yang Yuanqing, CEO, Lenovo

"Trust is the most fundamental currency of business, and it has long been one of P&G's five core values. Without trust we have no business. It's that simple. But with trust, we have unlimited opportunities to collaborate, to grow, and to fulfill our purpose as a company. The job of every leader at every level is to cultivate and protect trust. FranklinCovey shows the way; it is both a mind-set and a toolbox for twenty-first-century leadership. I recommend it highly."

—Robert A. McDonald, chairman, president, and CEO, Procter & Gamble Company

"My team is now a different team. It's the most exciting change in the culture I've seen in the twenty-eight years that I've been at PepsiCo. Our recent profit growth was the best in the last ten years in the worst economic climate in ten years—I credit the Speed of Trust for our breakthrough performance."

—Al Carey, former CEO, Frito-Lay,

"The Speed of Trust teaches a critical lesson: only organizations with a sterling level of trust garner a culture of true commitment vs. a whirlpool of wishful thinking through forced compliance."

—Peter Beaudrault, President and CEO, Sbarro

"The Speed of Trust is red-hot relevant. Trust is the intangible asset that can help assure the long-term sustainability of any organization or enterprise...."

—William G. Parrett, CEO, Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu; Senior Partner, Deloitte & Touche USA LLP

"Trust reduces transaction costs; it reduces the need for litigation and speeds commerce; it actually lubricates organizations and societies. At last someone is articulating its true value and presenting it as a core business competency."

—Marilyn Carlson Nelson, Chair and CEO, Carlson Companies

"Trust is a critical component for any organization looking to improve productivity and accelerate growth, and no one understands this as well as FranklinCovey. Their approach helps companies move faster, make better decisions, and deliver quality to customers; it can also help transform a corporate culture."

—Randall Stephenson, chairman, president, and CEO, AT&T

Other Organizations Implementing the Speed of Trust

