What is a Performance Model?

The Performance Model for Counter Sales 2016 provides the recommended range of skills and behaviors for the job. This report compares Gregory Geary's assessment results to the range of scores to show how well he might fit the position. The Performance Model includes:

THINKING STYLE

- Thinking Style is the ability to process information.
- It includes problem-solving, communication, interaction, and learning skills.
- Results are illustrated on scales ranging from 1 to 10.
- A higher score is not necessarily the best indicator of on-the-job performance.

BEHAVIORAL TRAITS

- Behavioral Traits are commonly observed actions that help define who someone is.
- Each scale is defined by two opposing, but equally valuable, end points.
- One side of the continuum is not better than the other.

INTERESTS

- This section may indicate a person's motivation and potential satisfaction with various jobs.
- These are ranked in order from the person's highest- to lowest-scoring interest.

Distortion was detected in this report. What does that mean?

Some candidates may answer in a way that is socially desirable or to make themselves look better, rather than respond candidly and risk disapproval. Based on his assessment results, there is a chance that Gregory may not have been fully candid in his responses. Therefore, we recommend that you put additional weight on the interview process and use at least one interview question from each of the behavioral scales.

Anticipation of outcomes and motives

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who demonstrates a positive attitude about the outcome of a sale throughout the entire process.

Gregory: May be less optimistic and trusting than those who typically perform best in this position.

Decisiveness

Use of speed and caution to make decisions

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who makes quick and timely decisions with clients, but can pull in a more balanced and methodical approach when necessary.

Gregory: Fits the Performance Model.

Accommodation

Inclination to tend to others' needs and ideas

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who can accommodate the needs of customers and prospects but will occasionally assert his own opinions to the client.

Gregory: Fits the Performance Model.

Independence

Level of preference for instruction and guidance

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who demonstrates some level of independence, but functions best when offered specific instructions and a moderate level of guidance.

Gregory: Fits the Performance Model.

Judgment

Basis for forming opinions and making decisions

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who forms opinions and makes decisions about clients and specific sales that are grounded in firm facts.

Gregory: May be less objective when making decisions than people who have been successful in this position.

INTERESTS

The assessment measures six possible Interests, which appear below from Gregory's highest- to lowest-scoring interest. The top three Interests for the Performance Model are noted. Two-way and three-way ties are indicated if present.

This list of interests is obviously not exhaustive, and because interests are often something that can be satisfied outside of work, they make up only 20% of the candidate's overall job fit score (Thinking and Behavioral each make up 40% of the overall score). Still, a person's interests can sometimes provide insight into how easily motivated he or she will be concerning different tasks, and how much enjoyment he or she may find in a particular role.

GREGORY'S ORDER OF INTERESTS

- Ordered from his highest- to lowest-scoring interest
- Counter Sales 2016 Performance Model Interests are indicated
- Ties are indicated if present

Mechanical

A Mechanical interest suggests the enjoyment of building and repairing things and working with machinery or tools. Salespeople with this interest may seek out sales activities that involve practical objectives and product utility.

Technical

A technical interest suggests the enjoyment of learning technical material, interpreting complex information, and solving abstract problems. Salespeople with this interest may enjoy promoting technical improvements and high-tech gadgetry.

Financial/Admin [PERFORMANCE MODEL INTEREST]

A Financial/Admin interest suggests the enjoyment of working with numbers and organizing sales-related information in order to make the selling process more efficient. It could also indicate an eye for detail and a desire for accuracy.

Enterprising [PERFORMANCE MODEL INTEREST]

An Enterprising interest suggests the enjoyment of leadership, presenting ideas, and using persuasiveness. Salespeople with this interest may be motivated by competitive sales objectives and exercise initiative, ambition, and resourcefulness.

TIED

Creative

A Creative interest suggests the enjoyment of imaginative and artistic activities. Salespeople with this interest may appreciate sales activities or presentations that involve innovative thinking, personal expression, and product appeal.

People Service [PERFORMANCE MODEL INTEREST]

A People Service interest suggests the enjoyment of collaboration, compromise, and helping others. It may indicate a salesperson who seeks out sales activities that involve working with and serving others, whether team members or clients.

CRITICAL SALES PRACTICES

Gregory Geary & Counter Sales 2016

This section is descriptive of eight sales practices, derived directly from the behavioral scales, and how Gregory might demonstrate them (if relevant to the Counter Sales 2016 role).

Prospecting

Strategizing, seeking out, and creating opportunities to engage with potential clients.

- More often than not, Gregory is deliberate in his approach to identifying new leads.
- Gregory may be somewhat careful in determining what qualifies as a solid lead.
- Gregory may prefer to receive guidance on identifying new leads, but probably isn't afraid to make decisions on his own when the situation calls for it.
- Gregory is likely most successful in creating new opportunities when established procedures are in place for identifying new clients.

Initiating Contact

Taking the necessary steps to make the initial introduction with a client.

- Gregory thrives on connecting with others and will likely come across as open and friendly when starting a new relationship.
- Gregory is probably most comfortable with a steady approach and, so, he may reach out to new clients at a more systematic, deliberate pace.
- Gregory may be inclined to take charge to get the win and achieve a goal, so he will probably show little reluctance in approaching prospects.
- Gregory may plan out how he will reach out to a new client rather than proceeding without considering his approach.

Building and Maintaining Relationships

Creating and establishing a connection with a client, which develops by attending to the client's needs.

- Gregory enjoys interacting with people, which will probably make it easier for him to establish casual, even intimate bonds with his clients.
- Although Gregory is fairly assertive, he's unlikely to come across as so forceful or opinionated that clients are turned off.
- When clients express their needs, Gregory will probably do a good job at bending to meet those needs.
- Since he is inclined to be wary in new relationships until trust is built, Gregory may, at times, have challenges establishing strong connections.

Closing the Sale

Transitioning from discussing a client's needs to completing the entire transaction.

- Because Gregory has a lower sense of urgency, he may not always push to close a transaction sooner rather than later.
- From an interpersonal perspective, Gregory is fairly assertive and he may show little reluctance in pushing a client toward a close.
- Because Gregory is a bit more cautious than bold, he may want to make sure that he has covered all his bases before closing.
- Before trying to close a sale, Gregory probably seeks confirmation that the client is ready, but may, at times, move forward without clear-cut evidence if he is feeling optimistic about the client.

Self-Starting

Taking the initiative to personally identify and undertake the required work to achieve results.

- Gregory likely is very patient in getting things going, making sure to identify what is needed to complete the task.
- Gregory will likely prefer to get the help and guidance of others before starting out on a new project, but, when necessary, can act independently in most cases.
- Gregory likely prefers to follow the guidelines of others when getting going on new things, but knows how to challenge conventional thinking when necessary.
- Gregory can balance a willingness to take risks and a need to think things through methodically prior to making a decision to get things started.

Resourcefulness

Identifying and strategizing ways to maximize available resources in order to attain specific goals.

- While more inclined to wait for the support of others, Gregory knows how to run with things on his own and seek out the best way to get something done.
- Gregory knows how to work within established guidelines, which benefits him when efficient processes are in place.
- Gregory likely enlists and relies on others as valuable resources to help get things done efficiently.
- Gregory may be most attracted to tried-and-true methods, but may be open to more risky options when encouraged by others.

Coachability

A willingness to improve or adapt existing skills in order to excel or achieve peak performance.

- Because Gregory typically responds well to structure set by others, he is generally willing to run with the advice others provide.
- While Gregory can be independent at times, he values the opinions and support of others and may actively seek out guidance when stuck.
- Since Gregory is typically amenable to others' opinions, he is likely inclined to listen to and accept advice.
- Because of his inclination to push for his own ideas, Gregory may push back when others try to provide feedback.

Working with a Team

Working collectively and cooperatively to achieve a shared goal.

- Because Gregory is so sociable, he may help create a team atmosphere where people get to know one another on a personal level.
- Gregory may routinely work at a slower, more methodical pace than many of his colleagues.
- It is possible that his skepticism could, in small ways, contribute to more cynicism on the team.
- Generally speaking, Gregory will probably show a healthy mix of sticking by his opinions and bending to meet the needs of his teammates.

INTERVIEW QUESTIONS

Gregory Geary & Counter Sales 2016

CHALLENGE AREAS FOR THIS JOB FIT

Below you will find what could be Gregory's top challenge areas for this position. The selection is based on how Gregory scored on the assessment compared to the specific requirements for Counter Sales 2016.

Verbal Reasoning

BELOW PERFORMANCE MODEL

He responds best to unambiguous communications.

→ Listen for: how willing he is to learn from miscommunication and how he has improved his approach.

1. How have you handled situations in which your client's or customer's explanation of an idea seemed unclear or difficult to understand?
2. Tell me about a time when there was a misunderstanding because a client or customer used overly complex or advanced language. What did you do to prevent such a misunderstanding from happening again?

Outlook

MORE SKEPTICAL THAN PERFORMANCE MODEL

He tends to be fairly skeptical and often looks for the evidence to back up a claim.

→ Listen for: how willing he is to give others the benefit of the doubt.

3. Describe a recent brainstorming or problem-solving session you had with your colleagues. What are the advantages and disadvantages of such sessions?
4. How do you rebuild trust that has been lost in a relationship? Give me an example from your experience.

Judgment

MORE INTUITIVE THAN PERFORMANCE MODEL

He probably balances common sense and practical experience to make decisions.

→ Listen for: his level of frustration when asked to disregard his instincts and base a decision solely on facts.

5. Describe a time when you had to put aside your strong sense of the right direction and make a decision about a sale based purely on facts. What happened, and how did you feel about it?
6. What are the benefits of basing decisions on gut instincts? When might this approach be problematic during the sales process?
