

PXT Select™

Sales: Comprehensive Selection Report

Brian Fleischman

CONFIDENTIAL

Assessment taken: 11.10.22 Printed: 11.10.22

This report is provided by:
Johnstone Supply - The Wallace Group
77 Halstead Street
Suite 3
Rochester, NY 14610-1955
(585) 482-8000

INTRODUCTION

This report is intended to help you choose the candidate(s) who may be the best fit for the position of Outside Sales. The Performance Model for this position reflects the attributes typical of high performers in this position. Brian Fleischman's personalized information will be compared to the Performance Model, giving you a detailed understanding of how well-suited he may be to this role.

What's in this report?

RESULTS SUMMARY Candidate's results from the assessment compared to the Performance Model	CRITICAL SALES PRACTICES Deeper dive into sales-related practices with candidate interpretation	INTERVIEW QUESTIONS Series of personalized questions based on the candidate's fit to the Performance Model
---	---	--

What is a Performance Model?

The Performance Model for Outside Sales provides the recommended range of skills and behaviors for the job. This report compares Brian Fleischman's assessment results to the range of scores to show how well he might fit the position. The Performance Model includes:

THINKING STYLE

- Thinking Style is the ability to process information.
- It includes problem-solving, communication, interaction, and learning skills.
- Results are illustrated on scales ranging from 1 to 10.
- A higher score is not necessarily the best indicator of on-the-job performance.

BEHAVIORAL TRAITS

- Behavioral Traits are commonly observed actions that help define who someone is.
- Each scale is defined by two opposing, but equally valuable, end points.
- One side of the continuum is not better than the other.

INTERESTS

- This section may indicate a person's motivation and potential satisfaction with various jobs.
- These are ranked in order from the person's highest- to lowest-scoring interest.

Distortion was not detected in this report. What does that mean?

Some candidates may answer in a way that is socially desirable or to make themselves look better, rather than respond candidly and risk disapproval. Based on his assessment results, it appears that Brian answered candidly.

OUTSIDE SALES

Brian J Fleischman

OVERALL FIT:74%

Performance Model = highlighted boxes; Brian's placement = his initials

THINKING STYLE

BEHAVIORAL TRAITS

INTERESTS

BRIAN

in rank order

PEOPLE SERVICE

ENTERPRISING

MECHANICAL

TECHNICAL

FINANCIAL/ADMIN

CREATIVE

] TIED

] TIED

PERFORMANCE MODEL

in rank order

ENTERPRISING

MECHANICAL

CREATIVE

PERFORMANCE MODEL

For Outside Sales

The highlighted boxes represent the Outside Sales Performance Model, reflecting the specific requirements for this position. Brian's placement is labeled with his initials.

THINKING STYLE

Composite Score

A reflection of overall learning, reasoning, and problem-solving potential

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who assimilates information with minimal confusion and can pick up new selling concepts and techniques easily.

Brian: Fits the Performance Model.

Verbal Skill

A measure of vocabulary

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who can process fairly complex language and is capable of effectively explaining and marketing a product to a client.

Brian: May experience frustration when required to communicate with less verbally adept clients and coworkers.

Verbal Reasoning

Using words for reasoning and problem solving

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who interprets routine communications effectively with an ability to analyze more complex verbal interactions.

Brian: Has a greater ability to process verbal information than is required and may experience frustration with straightforward and routine sales conversations.

Numerical Ability

A measure of numerical calculation ability

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who is proficient with basic numerical equations and may be able to perform some complex sales-related calculations.

Brian: Fits the Performance Model.

Numeric Reasoning

Using numbers as a basis in reasoning and problem solving

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who is reasonably efficient in using numerical data in decision making and selling and requires little assistance in processing charts and graphs.

Brian: Fits the Performance Model.

BEHAVIORAL TRAITSPace

Overall rate of task completion

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who responds well to time constraints and generally works at a brisk pace.

Brian: Isn't quite as fast-paced as the position demands for successful performance and may, at times, struggle to keep up.

Assertiveness

Expression of opinions and need for control

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who enjoys a direct approach to selling but also appreciates the more subtle aspects of sales negotiation.

Brian: Fits the Performance Model.

SociabilityDesire for interaction with others

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who is motivated to present his ideas and products to new prospects and can comfortably carry on meaningful conversations with others.

Brian: Fits the Performance Model.

ConformityAttitude on policies and supervision

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who responds well in a structured environment and does not mind following the leadership of others.

Brian: Responds best to a highly structured environment and may become frustrated by the level of individualistic thinking typically required for success in this role.

OutlookAnticipation of outcomes and motives

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who demonstrates a positive attitude about the outcome of a sale, but will not be easily misled.

Brian: Tends to be more trusting and less skeptical than others who have been successful in this position.

DecisivenessUse of speed and caution to make decisions

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who makes quick and timely decisions with clients, but can pull in a more balanced and methodical approach when necessary.

Brian: Likes to proceed with caution when making decisions, and may lack the boldness necessary to keep up with fast-paced clients.

Accommodation

Inclination to tend to others' needs and ideas

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who can accommodate the needs of customers and prospects but will occasionally assert his own opinions to the client.

Brian: May be less willing to be direct with clients than is typically required for success in this role.

Independence

Level of preference for instruction and guidance

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who functions best when allowed to work independently of direction and guidance, but also knows when to rely on the support and advice of others.

Brian: May seek more guidance and instruction from others than is typical for best performance in this position.

Judgment

Basis for forming opinions and making decisions

Ideal Candidate: Salesperson who is most successful when provided ample information to make objective decisions, yet is capable of relying on intuition when necessary.

Brian: May be less objective when making decisions than people who have been successful in this position.

INTERESTS

The assessment measures six possible Interests, which appear below from Brian's highest- to lowest-scoring interest. The top three Interests for the Performance Model are noted. Two-way and three-way ties are indicated if present.

This list of interests is obviously not exhaustive, and because interests are often something that can be satisfied outside of work, they make up only 20% of the candidate's overall job fit score (Thinking and Behavioral each make up 40% of the overall score). Still, a person's interests can sometimes provide insight into how easily motivated he or she will be concerning different tasks, and how much enjoyment he or she may find in a particular role.

BRIAN'S ORDER OF INTERESTS

- Ordered from his highest- to lowest-scoring interest
- Outside Sales Performance Model Interests are indicated
- Ties are indicated if present

People Service

A People Service interest suggests the enjoyment of collaboration, compromise, and helping others. It may indicate a salesperson who seeks out sales activities that involve working with and serving others, whether team members or clients.

Enterprising [PERFORMANCE MODEL INTEREST]

An Enterprising interest suggests the enjoyment of leadership, presenting ideas, and using persuasiveness. Salespeople with this interest may be motivated by competitive sales objectives and exercise initiative, ambition, and resourcefulness.

TIED

Mechanical [PERFORMANCE MODEL INTEREST]

A Mechanical interest suggests the enjoyment of building and repairing things and working with machinery or tools. Salespeople with this interest may seek out sales activities that involve practical objectives and product utility.

Technical

A technical interest suggests the enjoyment of learning technical material, interpreting complex information, and solving abstract problems. Salespeople with this interest may enjoy promoting technical improvements and high-tech gadgetry.

TIED

Financial/Admin

A Financial/Admin interest suggests the enjoyment of working with numbers and organizing sales-related information in order to make the selling process more efficient. It could also indicate an eye for detail and a desire for accuracy.

Creative [PERFORMANCE MODEL INTEREST]

A Creative interest suggests the enjoyment of imaginative and artistic activities. Salespeople with this interest may appreciate sales activities or presentations that involve innovative thinking, personal expression, and product appeal.

CRITICAL SALES PRACTICES

Brian J Fleischman & Outside Sales

This section is descriptive of eight sales practices, derived directly from the behavioral scales, and how Brian might demonstrate them (if relevant to the Outside Sales role).

Prospecting

Strategizing, seeking out, and creating opportunities to engage with potential clients.

- Brian may be very careful in determining what qualifies as a solid lead, making sure he has covered all his bases.
- Because Brian is more reliant than independent, it's likely that he'll prefer guidance when determining who qualifies as a valuable lead.
- More often than not, Brian will take a deliberate approach during the prospecting process, but he can seek out opportunities in brief spurts when necessary.
- Brian may be most successful in creating new opportunities when established procedures are in place for identifying new clients.

Initiating Contact

Taking the necessary steps to make the initial introduction with a client.

- Brian thrives on connecting with others and will likely come across as open and friendly when starting a new relationship.
- Under some circumstances, Brian may hesitate in making the initial contact with a new client because he wants to make sure there is a clear and well-thought-out approach.
- If the organization's process for reaching out to prospects is ambiguous, Brian may look to his manager or coworkers for a lot of support and guidance.
- Brian may be inclined to take charge to get the win and achieve a goal, so he will probably show little reluctance in approaching prospects.

Building and Maintaining Relationships

Creating and establishing a connection with a client, which develops by attending to the client's needs.

- Brian enjoys interacting with people, which will probably make it easier for him to establish casual, even intimate bonds with his clients.
- Brian values harmony and stability in relationships and typically avoids rocking the boat, which may make it easier for him to develop working relationships with clients.
- Because Brian is so optimistic and accepting of others, it's more likely that clients will feel comfortable opening up to him.
- Although Brian is fairly assertive, he's unlikely to come across as so forceful or opinionated that clients are turned off.

Closing the Sale

Transitioning from discussing a client's needs to completing the entire transaction.

- Because Brian is more cautious by nature, he may be hesitant to push his luck by trying to close a sale too early.
- He will likely allow the client to realize their need for the product or offering rather than pushing his own ideas and beliefs onto the client.
- He has a preference for guidance and, therefore, may sometimes consult with others to confirm that he is progressing appropriately with a client.
- From an interpersonal perspective, Brian is fairly assertive and he may show little reluctance in pushing a client toward a close.

Self-Starting

Taking the initiative to personally identify and undertake the required work to achieve results.

- Brian tends to be patient in getting things going, but knows how to move things along when necessary.
- Because he tends to rely on others, Brian will likely seek out others' advice and input before getting started on something new.
- Brian probably doesn't often take it upon himself to reinterpret rules or policies, so may hold off on pursuing initiatives that are deemed unconventional in the culture.
- Brian prefers to be methodical and to not take risks, which may lead him to hold off on starting new projects until all options have been considered.

Resourcefulness

Identifying and strategizing ways to maximize available resources in order to attain specific goals.

- Because Brian may often wait for input from others, he may not always take it upon himself to figure out which resources are needed to get the job done.
- Brian may be more attracted to tried-and-true methods and, thus, may fail to consider options that involve risk taking.
- Brian tends to work within established guidelines, benefiting him when working on projects where efficient processes are in place but limiting him when those guidelines are insufficient.
- Brian likely enlists and relies on others as valuable resources to help get things done efficiently.

Coachability

A willingness to improve or adapt existing skills in order to excel or achieve peak performance.

- Brian wants to work within the rules and will readily accept feedback and suggestions provided by others.
- Brian functions best when provided with support and instruction, and so may actively seek out guidance.
- Brian willingly sets aside his own needs to accommodate the needs of others, making it easy to provide him with advice.
- Because Brian has a fairly optimistic view of human nature, he may be less likely to question the motives of people giving him feedback.

Working with a Team

Working collectively and cooperatively to achieve a shared goal.

- Because Brian has a generally positive outlook, he may help contribute to a more optimistic attitude on the team.
- Generally speaking, Brian will probably be very accommodating to the needs of his teammates.
- Brian may rely heavily on his teammates for support and guidance.
- Because Brian is so sociable, he may help create a team atmosphere where people get to know one another on a personal level.

INTERVIEW QUESTIONS

Brian J Fleischman & Outside Sales

CHALLENGE AREAS FOR THIS JOB FIT

Below you will find what could be Brian's top challenge areas for this position. The selection is based on how Brian scored on the assessment compared to the specific requirements for Outside Sales.

Independence

MORE RELIANT THAN PERFORMANCE MODEL

He tends to seek support and easily accepts direction.

→ Listen for: whether he seems uncomfortable or frustrated with undefined or unstructured assignments.

1. Tell me about a time when you had to make a decision or bend the rules to keep your work moving forward. What did you take away from the experience?
2. What type of information do you like to have before you begin working with a new client? What do you do if you feel you haven't received enough guidance from a sales manager?

Decisiveness

MORE DELIBERATE THAN PERFORMANCE MODEL

He tends to carefully analyze situations in order to make informed decisions.

→ Listen for: his ability to make decisions more quickly when circumstances warrant it.

3. Describe a time when you waited too long to make a decision. What were the consequences? What would you do differently?
4. Would you describe your decision-making style as bold or cautious? Give an example of when it would have been better to take the opposite approach.

Verbal Skill

ABOVE PERFORMANCE MODEL

He communicates at a high level and can easily understand complex instructions.

→ Listen for: how much effort he uses to adjust his communication style to the needs of the audience.

5. Tell me about a time when you realized you were speaking at a more advanced level than a client or prospect could understand. What did you do to communicate your message more clearly?
6. Describe a situation where you had to explain a technical or complex subject to a client or prospect. What steps did you take to ensure you adequately explained the key points?

AREAS OF STRENGTH FOR THIS JOB FIT

Next you will find what could be Brian's top areas of strength for this position. The selection is based on how Brian scored on the assessment compared to the specific requirements for Outside Sales.

Assertiveness

FITS PERFORMANCE MODEL

→ Listen for: how successfully he determines when to push forward and when to refrain from action.

7. Describe a recent experience where you had to be assertive with a client. How did you determine how much you needed to push to get what you needed?
8. When you work with a client who is highly forceful or demanding, what approach do you take to maintain an effective working relationship with this person?

Numerical Ability

FITS PERFORMANCE MODEL

→ Listen for: his comfort with numerical calculations, including using new methods of calculating data.

9. Describe a situation where you had to consider different types of numerical information. How did you ensure that you understood and correctly applied the most important aspects of the data?
10. When you are asked to use new mathematical processes at work, such as pricing or measurements, how long does it take for you to become comfortable with them?

Numeric Reasoning

FITS PERFORMANCE MODEL

He can efficiently base his decisions on numerical data.

→ Listen for: the complexity of numerical problem-solving techniques used and how readily he can explain the details of those techniques.

11. Describe a situation where there were changes to the way you had to work with or report data. What did you do to make the adjustment and to ensure accuracy?
12. Tell me about a time when you used numerical data to find a solution to a problem or convince others to change the way they were doing things.

QUESTIONS FOR REMAINING SCALES

You will find suggested interview questions for the remaining scales below.

Verbal Reasoning

ABOVE PERFORMANCE MODEL

He can easily analyze complex verbal information and make reliable interpretations.

→ Listen for: how willing he is to take responsibility for successful communication with others.

13. Tell me about a time when you had to update clients or customers who all needed different information. How did you determine who needed what information?
14. When you communicate to clients and customers with different needs, how do you adjust your approach? Give me an example of how you've been successful in this and when you could have communicated differently.

Pace

MORE STEADY THAN PERFORMANCE MODEL

He tends to be good with routine and works at a steady to moderate pace.

→ Listen for: how he uses different strategies for negotiating workload, due dates, and resources.

15. Tell me about a time when you had a lot of work and clients to manage and additional assignments just kept coming. How did you handle and balance the workload?
16. Describe the last time you worked on closing a sale that demanded a lot of initiative and self-motivation. What was challenging and what did you enjoy about this experience?

Sociability

FITS PERFORMANCE MODEL

He tends to be very extraverted and people-oriented.

→ Listen for: how he recognizes when to be more or less outgoing to fit the needs of a client or the situation.

17. Describe a time when you had to act more or less outgoing than is natural for you. What did you do to adapt?
18. Do you prefer to work with others on sales assignments or to pitch the sale by yourself? Tell me about a sales process that best fits your work style.

ConformityMORE COMPLIANT THAN PERFORMANCE MODEL

He tends to be very cooperative and almost always works within the rules.

→ Listen for: whether he has challenged supervisors, clients, or systems when the situation called for it.

19. Describe a situation where you felt like you had to speak out about a problem, even though no one else wanted to address it. What was challenging about that for you?
20. Tell me about a time when you had to repeatedly push back against a colleague or supervisor because you thought he or she was wrong. How would you handle it differently today?

OutlookMORE TRUSTING THAN PERFORMANCE MODEL

He tends to be very optimistic and accepting.

→ Listen for: whether he thinks critically about others' ideas, rather than accepting them too readily.

21. Describe a situation where you were asked to critique someone else's work. How did you feel about this task, and what was the outcome?
22. Tell me about a time when you were skeptical about a decision that had been made. How did you voice your concern to your colleagues?

AccommodationMORE AGREEABLE THAN PERFORMANCE MODEL

He tends to be harmonious and eager to cooperate.

→ Listen for: whether he is willing to hold firm or be more direct with clients when situations call for it.

23. Tell me about a time when a client really tried your patience. Specifically, talk about a time when you were angry or frustrated. How did you handle it?
24. Describe a time when you were swayed by a colleague's argument. What happened in that interaction?

JudgmentMORE INTUITIVE THAN PERFORMANCE MODEL

He probably balances common sense and practical experience to make decisions.

☞ Listen for: his level of frustration when asked to disregard his instincts and base a decision solely on facts.

25. Describe a time when you had to put aside your strong sense of the right direction and make a decision about a sale based purely on facts. What happened, and how did you feel about it?
26. What are the benefits of basing decisions on gut instincts? When might this approach be problematic during the sales process?