What is a Performance Model?

The Performance Model for Outside Sales provides the recommended range of skills and behaviors for the job. This report compares Brian Fleischman's assessment results to the range of scores to show how well he might fit the position. The Performance Model includes:

THINKING STYLE

- Thinking Style is the ability to process information.
- It includes problem-solving, communication, interaction, and learning skills.
- Results are illustrated on scales ranging from 1 to 10.
- A higher score is not necessarily the best indicator of on-the-job performance.

BEHAVIORAL TRAITS

- Behavioral Traits are commonly observed actions that help define who someone is.
- Each scale is defined by two opposing, but equally valuable, end points.
- One side of the continuum is not better than the other.

INTERESTS

- This section may indicate a person's motivation and potential satisfaction with various jobs.
- These are ranked in order from the person's highest- to lowest-scoring interest.

Distortion was not detected in this report. What does that mean?

Some candidates may answer in a way that is socially desirable or to make themselves look better, rather than respond candidly and risk disapproval. Based on his assessment results, it appears that Brian answered candidly.

PERFORMANCE MODEL

For Outside Sales

The highlighted boxes represent the Outside Sales Performance Model, reflecting the specific requirements for this position. Brian's placement is labeled with his initials.

THINKING STYLE

Composite Score

A reflection of overall learning, reasoning, and problem-solving potential

Ideal Candidate: Assimilates information with minimal confusion and can handle more complex information processing.

Brian: Fits the Performance Model.

Verbal Skill

A measure of vocabulary

Ideal Candidate: Can process fairly complex language and has a vocabulary in the above average range.

Brian: May experience frustration when communicating with less verbally adept coworkers.

Verbal Reasoning

Using words for reasoning and problem solving

Ideal Candidate: Capable of analyzing and understanding the nuances contained in complex communication.

Brian: Has a greater ability to process verbal information than is required and may experience frustration over the lack of challenge.

Numerical Ability

A measure of numerical calculation ability

Ideal Candidate: Proficient with basic numerical equations and is fairly comfortable with complex calculations.

Brian: Fits the Performance Model.

Numeric Reasoning

Using numbers as a basis in reasoning and problem solving

Ideal Candidate: Reasonably efficient when using numerical data in decision making and requires little assistance in processing charts and graphs.

Brian: Fits the Performance Model.

BEHAVIORAL TRAITSPace

Overall rate of task completion

Ideal Candidate: Responds well to time constraints and generally works at a brisk pace.

Brian: Isn't quite as fast-paced as the position demands for successful performance and may, at times, struggle to keep up.

Assertiveness

Expression of opinions and need for control

Ideal Candidate: Enjoys influencing others but is still willing to follow direction from someone else when necessary.

Brian: Fits the Performance Model.

Sociability

Desire for interaction with others

Ideal Candidate: Generally outgoing and capable of working effectively in a team environment.

Brian: Fits the Performance Model.

Conformity

Attitude on policies and supervision

Ideal Candidate: Responds well to a structured environment and does not mind close supervision.

Brian: Responds best to a highly structured environment and may become frustrated by the level of individualistic thinking typically required for success in this role.

Outlook

Anticipation of outcomes and motives

Ideal Candidate: Demonstrates a generally positive attitude, yet will express doubt on occasion.

Brian: Tends to be more trusting and less skeptical than others who have been successful in this position.

Decisiveness

Use of speed and caution to make decisions

Ideal Candidate: Balances timeliness and deliberation, but is comfortable making quick decisions when necessary.

Brian: May require additional time or appear indecisive when making decisions.

Accommodation

Inclination to tend to others' needs and ideas

Ideal Candidate: Expresses his or her point of view, but is very attentive to the needs of others.

Brian: Less willing to be direct and challenge others' opinions than is typically required for success in this role.

Independence

Level of preference for instruction and guidance

Ideal Candidate: Moderately independent yet can accept necessary guidance and instruction.

Brian: May seek more guidance and instruction from others than is typical for best performance in this position.

Judgment

Basis for forming opinions and making decisions

Ideal Candidate: Balances objective information and instincts to make decisions.

Brian: May be less objective when making decisions than people who have been successful in this position.

INTERESTS

The assessment measures six possible Interests, which appear below from Brian's highest- to lowest-scoring interest. The top three Interests for the Performance Model are noted. Two-way and three-way ties are indicated if present.

This list of interests is obviously not exhaustive, and because interests are often something that can be satisfied outside of work, they make up only 20% of the candidate's overall job fit score (Thinking and Behavioral each make up 40% of the overall score). Still, a person's interests can sometimes provide insight into how easily motivated he or she will be concerning different tasks, and how much enjoyment he or she may find in a particular role.

BRIAN'S ORDER OF INTERESTS

- Ordered from his highest- to lowest-scoring interest
- Outside Sales Performance Model Interests are indicated
