To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. IMPORTANT INFORMATION REGARDING QUARTERLY FEES CHARGED TO YOUR ACCOUNT

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION REGARDING QUARTERLY FEES CHARGED TO YOUR ACCOUNT

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at: www.dol.gov/agencies/ebsa/about-ebsa/our-activities/resource-center/publications

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at: www.dol.gov/agencies/ebsa/about-ebsa/our-activities/resource-center/publications

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at: www.dol.gov/agencies/ebsa/about-ebsa/our-activities/resource-center/publications

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at: www.dol.gov/agencies/ebsa/about-ebsa/our-activities/resource-center/publications

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at: www.dol.gov/agencies/ebsa/about-ebsa/our-activities/resource-center/publications

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at:

IMPORTANT INFORMATION REGARDING QUARTERLY FEES CHARGED TO YOUR ACCOUNT

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at: www.dol.gov/agencies/ebsa/about-ebsa/our-activities/resource-center/publications

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at:

Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION REGARDING QUARTERLY FEES CHARGED TO YOUR ACCOUNT

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. Wallace Group
401(k) Profit-Sharing Plan

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at:

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION REGARDING QUARTERLY FEES CHARGED TO YOUR ACCOUNT

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at: www.dol.gov/agencies/ebsa/about-ebsa/our-activities/resource-center/publications

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at: www.dol.gov/agencies/ebsa/about-ebsa/our-activities/resource-center/publications

If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at: www.dol.gov/agencies/ebsa/about-ebsa/our-activities/resource-center/publications

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION REGARDING QUARTERLY FEES CHARGED TO YOUR ACCOUNT

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at:

IMPORTANT INFORMATION REGARDING QUARTERLY FEES CHARGED TO YOUR ACCOUNT

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at: www.dol.gov/agencies/ebsa/about-ebsa/our-activities/resource-center/publications

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at:

IMPORTANT INFORMATION REGARDING QUARTERLY FEES CHARGED TO YOUR ACCOUNT

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION REGARDING QUARTERLY FEES CHARGED TO YOUR ACCOUNT

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at: www.dol.gov/agencies/ebsa/about-ebsa/our-activities/resource-center/publications

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

Your statement now includes information on fees that have been applied to your account. The expenses charged to your account will fall generally into two categories:

Administrative Expenses are charges for certain services required to maintain the Plan. These costs are necessary to provide services such as web site maintenance, printing and mailing participant statements and accounting and recordkeeping fees to capture data necessary for IRS and DOL reporting. Processing of contributions and allocation of Plan assets to eligible participants and beneficiaries are included in this category. The fees appearing on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

Individual Expenses are costs applied to a participant's account that are the result of activities and transactions requested by or attributable to a specific individual. For example, the cost to initiate and maintain a loan, distribution fees or charges associated with the investment alternatives selected by the participant or beneficiary are considered individual expenses. The fees displayed on this statement reflect charges applied during this reporting period.

More detailed information on the fee transactions is available through the Plan's web site at <https://www.penserv.com> or you may contact a Participant Services Representative at (800) 849-4001.

To help achieve long-term retirement security, you should give careful consideration to the benefits of a well-balanced and diversified investment portfolio. Spreading your assets among different types of investments can help you achieve a favorable rate of return, while minimizing your overall risk of losing money. This is because market or other economic conditions that cause one category of assets or one particular security to perform very well often cause another asset category or another particular security to perform poorly. If you invest more than 20% of your retirement savings in any one company or industry, your savings may not be properly diversified. Although diversification is not a guarantee against loss, it is an effective strategy to help you manage investment risk.

In deciding how to invest your retirement savings, you should take into account all of your assets, including any retirement savings outside of the Plan. No single approach is right for everyone because, among other factors, individuals have different financial goals, different time horizons for meeting their goals, and different tolerances of risk.

It is also important to periodically review your investment portfolio, your investment objectives, and the investment options under the Plan to help ensure that your retirement savings will meet your retirement goals. For more information regarding individual investing and diversification, see the US Department of Labor internet website at: www.dol.gov/agencies/ebsa/about-ebsa/our-activities/resource-center/publications
