What is a Performance Model?

The Performance Model for Business Manager provides the recommended range of skills and behaviors for the job. This report compares Arthur Addington's assessment results to the range of scores to show how well he might fit the position. The Performance Model includes:

THINKING STYLE

- Thinking Style is the ability to process information.
- It includes problem-solving, communication, interaction, and learning skills.
- Results are illustrated on scales ranging from 1 to 10.
- A higher score is not necessarily the best indicator of on-the-job performance.

BEHAVIORAL TRAITS

- Behavioral Traits are commonly observed actions that help define who someone is.
- Each scale is defined by two opposing, but equally valuable, end points.
- One side of the continuum is not better than the other.

INTERESTS

- This section may indicate a person's motivation and potential satisfaction with various jobs.
- These are ranked in order from the person's highest- to lowest-scoring interest.

Distortion was not detected in this report. What does that mean?

Some candidates may answer in a way that is socially desirable or to make themselves look better, rather than respond candidly and risk disapproval. Based on his assessment results, it appears that Arthur answered candidly.

Judgment

Basis for forming opinions and making decisions

Ideal Candidate: Balances objective information and instincts to make decisions.

Arthur: May be less objective when making decisions than people who have been successful in this position.

INTERESTS

The assessment measures six possible Interests, which appear below from Arthur's highest- to lowest-scoring interest. The top three Interests for the Performance Model are noted. Two-way and three-way ties are indicated if present.

This list of interests is obviously not exhaustive, and because interests are often something that can be satisfied outside of work, they make up only 20% of the candidate's overall job fit score (Thinking and Behavioral each make up 40% of the overall score). Still, a person's interests can sometimes provide insight into how easily motivated he or she will be concerning different tasks, and how much enjoyment he or she may find in a particular role.

ARTHUR'S ORDER OF INTERESTS

- Ordered from his highest- to lowest-scoring interest
- Business Manager Performance Model Interests are indicated
- Ties are indicated if present

Enterprising [PERFORMANCE MODEL INTEREST]
